Songs of the Dead is part novel and part non-fiction. He makes the point that we are destroying all life on earth - and how "life" feels about what we are doing to it - through a story I loved Derrick's "dropping through time" in the story - a great way of showing differences in time and yet remaining cohesive

Song of the Dead in the South -- in the sun by their skeleton horses, Where the warrigal whimpers and bays through the dust of the sear river-courses. Song of the Dead in the East -- in the heat-rotted jungle hollows, Where the dog-ape barks in the kloof --in the brake of the buffalo-wallows. Song of the Dead in the West --in the Barrens, the waste that betrayed them,
