"The most ambitious and important new book is The Red Queen among Organizations, by William P. Barnett. . . . [I]t is the best strategy book of the year because of its main insights: Competition concerns relative performance, not absolute performance; a company's competitiveness is context specific, and contexts can change, giving rise to the competency trap; learning comes from competing, not isolation from competition; and differentiation is desirable as a way to secure rents, but must be ...

competitors fail, or they learn and adapt.

This in turn heightens the intensity of competition and further strengthens survivors in an ever-evolving dynamic.

Written by a leading organizational theorist, The Red Queen among Organizations challenges the prevailing wisdom about competition, revealing it to be a force that can make--and break--even the most successful organization.

The Red Queen Among Organizations: How Competitiveness Evolves. There's a scene in Lewis Carroll's Through the Looking Glass in which the Red Queen, having just led a chase with Alice in which neither seems to have moved from the spot where they began, explains to the perplexed girl: It takes all the running you can do, to keep in the same place.

Comprehensiveness Evolves competition, is based on the idea that competition both de-selects less-fit organizations and stimulates organizational learning. Organizations that have survived competition, then, are more fit, and so in turn they generate stronger competition.
