This year, the International Champagne Day is on the 23rd of October. For those who love Champagne and for the beginners, please enjoy few facts and funny information about this wine. Champagne is both a region (in France) and a wine name and only sparkling wine produced in Champagne region can be called Champagne. First vine bushes were planted in today-called-Champagne region by Romans in 57BC.

Those hoping to be regaled with bucolic Swiss imagery in The Finishing School will be disappointed since the setting merely serves as a barely sketched in background. However, the story sells itself thanks to Kersti's admirable, unrelenting search for the truth and the plentiful, though often unsettling, bombshells. Amazon | Goodreads

Elijah (Mamoudou Athie) works at the family barbecue restaurant in Memphis, stoking the coals, cutting ribs, and cleaning the floors, but his second job at a wine store is where he contemplates his true love: wine. In UNCORKED, he finally musters the courage to tell his father, Louis (Courtney B. Vance Jr.), that he wants to study to be a sommelier (a wine expert) rather than continue as a barbecue slinger.

Uncorked Movie Review - Common Sense Media

Those words are spoken by Elijah - a young African American in Memphis who dreams of being a Master Sommelier - in "Uncorked" (2020). It's an unassuming film that I found very moving, and its themes have resonated with me. I'm actually bummed out it has taken me this long to get to this lovely film since it was released last March.
